

Parma Summer School 2018

“Emerging Risks for Food Safety and Public Perception”

Meeting date:	15-17 May 2018
Meeting venue:	EFSA premises, Via Carlo Magno 1/A, Parma, Italy
Meeting room:	MTG SEAT 00/M07 and 00/M08
Organiser:	ENCO Unit

15 May 2018
Time	Items	Presenter
14.00 – 14.30	Welcome messages	Paolo Andrei, Rector, University of Parma
14.30 – 15.15	Emerging risks: definition, how we identify them (methods and tools) and the role of cooperation (stakeholders, scientists and networks)	Ana Afonso, EFSA
15.15 – 16.00	Food safety and risk perception: a look inside consumer mind	Michela Cortini, University of Chieti “G. d’Annunzio”
16.00–16.30	Coffee break
16.30 – 17.15	Risk perception and communication: the EFSA experience	Barbara Gallani, EFSA
17.15 – 18.00	Emerging risks in a changing world	Hilde Kruse, Food Safety and Quality Office, FAO
18.00	End of 1st day

16 May 2018

Time	Items	Presenter
09.30 – 10.00	In silico methods for food contaminants: the pesticides case study	Pietro Cozzini, University of Parma
10.00 – 10.30	Plant toxins as an emerging risk for food safety	Patrick Mulder, Wageningen University & Research Centre (RIKILT)
10.30 – 11.00	Identifying early signs: the example of antimicrobial resistance (AMR)	Stefano Pongolini, Istituto Zooprofilattico Sperimentale della Lombardia e dell'Emilia Romagna (IZSLER)
11.00–11.30	Coffee break
11.30 – 12.00	New methods: miniorgans	Costanza Rovida, University of Konstanz
12.00 – 12.30	Measuring and managing consumers' risk perception towards food related issues	Jose Maria Gil Roig, Polytechnic University of Catalunya
12.30 – 13.00	Animal health emerging risks identification in the UK	Paul Gale, Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA)
13.00-14.00	Lunch break
14.00 - 14.30	Neurotoxicology of pesticides	Marcel Leist, University of Kostanz
14.30 – 15.00	Climate change and food safety implications: the example of Mycotoxins	Paola Battilani, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore
15.00 – 15.30	Emerging microbiological risks	Lorenzo Morelli, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore
15.30 - 16.00	Understanding consumers' perception of emerging food safety risks: a crucial challenge for a better food safety system	Giovanni Sogari, Visiting Researcher, Dyson School of applied Economics and Management, Cornell University
16.00-16.30	Coffee break

16.30 – 17.00	Consumer perceptions of emerging risks: insights from a consumer survey and implications for communications	Giulia Nicolini, EFSA
17.00 – 17.30	Should we communicate on emerging risks?	Lucia de Luca, Tony Smith, EFSA
17.30–18.00	Discussion
18.00	End of 2nd day

17 May 2018
Time	Items	Presenter
10.00 – 10.30	Risk Communication in practice: what role for scientists?	Simon Terry, EFSA
10.30 – 11.00	Development of a novel scoring system for identifying emerging chemical risks in the food chain	Georges Kass, EFSA
11.00–11.30	Coffee break
11.30 – 12.00	Future research needs for safe food	Stef Bronzwaer, EFSA Research Coordinator
12.00–12.30	Discussion
12.30 – 13.00	Wrap-up and closure	Bernhard Url, Executive Director, EFSA
13.00–14.00	Lunch
14.00	End of 3rd day	